Dear Sr. Russell,

Thank you for contacting me regarding refugee resettlement in the United States.

As you may know, refugee resettlement is administered by a number of United States government agencies within the Departments of State, Homeland Security, and Health and Human Services. In order to provide relief to individuals in search of peace and opportunity, these agencies help identify and relocate refugees.

While humanitarian concerns in developing countries are paramount, policymakers in Washington must also be mindful of the potential homeland security threats stemming from certain conflicts around the world.

Rest assured that I will keep your thoughts and concerns in mind should any legislation come before the full Senate regarding the refugee admissions program.

Again, thank you for contacting me. I look forward to continuing our conversation on Facebook (www.facebook.com/SenatorBlunt) and Twitter (www.twitter.com/RoyBlunt) about the important issues facing Missouri and the country. I also encourage you to visit my website (blunt.senate.gov) to learn more about where I stand on the issues and sign-up for my e-newsletter.

Sincere regards,

Roy Blunt
